

After The Ball

For all you die-hards out there, if the history and charm of Beaufort and Savannah isn't enough for you, then, we are on to Charleston....

#1 small city in the U.S. Conde Nast Traveler

#1 South's Best City Southern Living

Best Places to Visit in the USA Travel USnews.com

Charleston is indeed a fantastic place to visit, and we will be there at the height of the season. Historic Charleston is packed onto a small peninsula with historic architecture, fine dining, and unique shopping. We will be staying in Mt. Pleasant, across the spectacular Ravenel bridge, where things are less congested and we can get a little relief from the intensity of all Charleston has to offer.

Thursday following the Annual Meeting, we will have some time to check out and find lunch in Beaufort, then head to Charleston with a stop to see the incredible Angel Oak, 400+ years in the making. As we travel across the peninsula, you will get to experience Charleston traffic which can rival Atlanta or LA. After settling in at the Cambria in Mt. Pleasant, we will meet at a local restaurant for dinner.

Hotel reservations:

Cambria Mt Pleasant

1472 Highway 17 North, Mt. Pleasant SC 29464

Here" the link:

190SL Group Block

call the front desk (843-849-9677) or Choice Reservations (877-424-6423) and request to make a reservation.

Ask for the "190SL Group" rate of $160 + tax per night

Cut off is April 2nd.

Friday is historic Charleston. You will need to do a little homework to choose what you most want to experience in the city. I will post some links and recommendations for your consideration. Large group arrangements are impossible, so you will be on your own for lunch and dinner. Charleston is a foodie paradise and the Lowcountry cuisine is the best in America. Make your reservations in advance since Charleston is such a popular destination.

Saturday you may want to return to the city to catch those things you missed on Friday, or visit some of the many local area attractions and historic sites. We will end the day, and the convention, with an evening boat cruise of Charleston Harbor.

Sunday is departure for home to rest and recuperate....I know I'll need it.

Can't wait to show you the Lowcountry.

Greg